

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE committee, in preparing this sketch of the Company's history, has deemed it unnecessary to cumber the work, with all the minute details during the fifty-three years of its existence. Our object has been to record the principal points of our Company's history, and we hope in that respect, we have fairly succeeded. It is offered to those, who have labored with us in the past as an heir-loom of the many happy by-gone days spent in each other's association. Having concluded our labor in compiling the following sketch, and trusting that our fellow members will overlook any inaccuracies which have occurred through the haste necessitated by the circumstances attending, we beg to remain,

Very respectfully yours,

HISTORY

OF POTTSVILLE. PENNA.

HE efforts first made toward the organization of the Good Intent Fire Company No. 1, date back to the Fall of 1846. At that time, the organizations for the purposes of fire fighting were considered by some of our citizens insufficient. Mr. Benjamin Haywood, our former respected and beloved townsman, drew up a paper and requested Mr. D. B. Strauch, an apprentice at that time, in the shops of Messrs. Haywood and Snyder, to circulate among the employees connected with the shops and the young men of the town and get signers who were willing to join the new company. Mr. Haywood cautioned Mr. Strauch to obtain "none but respectable, industrious and sober young men."

The following names appear upon the old records of the company: Thomas F. Beatty, James W. Bowen, Albert Silliman, William Beidleman, Nelson Mortimer, A. L. Moorhead, Jacob Feltnagel, W. W. ton Jackson, Treasurer, and William Barndollar, Secretary. A committee was appointed and sent to Philadelphia to secure an engine; this committee purchased the old Hope engine which stood on Sixth St., below Fitzwater St.

December 2, 1846, the first ball was held at the Town Hall, but owing to the inclemency of the weather and the military excitement pervading all classes of the community at the time, prevented a large attendance; the receipts were small and the scheme to raise the money to pay for the engine was consequently only partially successful.

On Wednesday, January 20, 1847, the new engine arrived at Mount Carbon, and the company manned the ropes and headed by a band of music paraded through the town and housed the machine on Third street between Market and Norwegian streets. The Miners' Journal relates the occurrence as follows: "On Wednesday, January 20, the fire engine purchased by the Good Intent Engine Company, of this borough, arrived in Pottsville and was brought up from the depot by the company. The engine is one of the first-class, and is said to be an excellent one. We are gratified to see that the efforts of the young men of our borough to provide a better fire apparatus have been crowned with success, and no committee ever appointed by any company to receive and collect subscriptions worked harder than the gentlemen composing the committee belonging to the Good Intent. No place ought to be better provided with efficient fire apparatus than Pottsville, and up to the present time few have been so badly off."

April 19, 1847, the Good Intent Engine Co., with apparatus, paraded with the National Light Infantry, in honor of Generals Taylor, Scott, and Colonel Wynkoop.

July 4, 1847, on this day the Pottsville Fire Companies paraded. The Good Intent Fire Engine Co. was conspicuous in the pageant; the members were dressed in full regalia, and the engine was drawn by six elegantly caparisoned steeds, each mounted by a boy dressed in Turkish costume, the whole accompanied by the brass band, whose strains contributed much to the general effect of the display.

July 4, 1848, "on this day the Good Intent Engine Company, with their engine handsomely decorated with wreaths and flowers, and in company with the Hydraulian which is now in charge of Juniors, proceeded through the streets in fireman's dress. Dr. Leib presented a silver trumpet on behalf of Messrs. Long and Jackson, of Philadelphia. It was received by James H. Campbell, Esq., in a neat and pertinent address in behalf of the company. The trumpet is a splendid instrument, very creditable to the taste and skill of the enterprising donors."

September 5, 1848, a committee of the company was appointed to meet a corresponding committee from the several fire companies of the borough to make general rules to regulate the whole fire department. The committee consisted of Thos. F. Beatty and Jacob Feltnagle..

The company also decided to hold an anniversary ball on October 5. The following committee was appointed: Jacob Feltnagle, Isaac Barkly, F. Rowbottom, Michael Mull, Wm. Christian.

On July 4, 1849, the Good Intent Fire Co. left for Reading, Pa., where they participated in the firemen's parade. They returned home on the morning of the 5th. The Miners' Journal comments as follows: "Before finally dismissing, they paraded through some of the principal streets of this place with their engine. It was drawn by four horses, on each of which was mounted a rider dressed in imitation of Arabs, preceded by members of the company, who were dressed in the uniform worn by firemen. They carried quite a handsome banner, which in connection with the taste and beauty with which the engine was decorated with natural and artificial flowers, and the excellent music of the band, gave the affair quite an imposing appearance."

The early history of the company as taken from the minutes relates the ordinary business proceedings in an organization of that kind. Elections for officers were held twice annually, fines were imposed for absence from meetings, committees were appointed to attend to repairs to engine house and apparatus and matters of detail, much the same way as at present.

On Monday, July 26, 1852, the company participated in the ceremonies of the laying of the corner stone of Henry Clay Monument.

In Oct., 1857, the company had the old Hope engine, purchased in 1846, rebuilt at Agrews, in Philadelphia, at a cost of $1,000.

. On January 5, 1859, Geo. Hartman, J. A. Lessig and E. L. Severn were appointed a committee to inquire into the expense of getting a charter.

On Wednesday, March 30, 1859, the fire department, of Pottsville, and two visiting companies, turned out on parade. The Citizen Engine Company, of Harrisburg, and the Junior Engine Company, of Reading, were met at the depot by the Good Intent Engine Company and escorted to the house, where they partook of a collation; subsequently they were conducted to their quarters at the American House. The line of parade formed on Market Square; N. Fox was Chief Marshal. The order of parade was as follows:

1. Rough and Ready Engine Co., Pottsville.
2. Humane Hose Company, Pottsville.
3. Young America Engine Co., Pottsville.
4. State Capital Band, Harrisburg.

partment, and exhibited the fact that it is in an effective condition. During its passage through the streets, the line looked quite brilliant, and was witnessed by throngs of spectators. At an early hour it dismissed in Market Square. In the evening the Good Intent Engine Company gave a ball at the Town Hall in honor of the visiting firemen. It was a most successful affair."

The following day the visiting firemen departed for their respective homes, having made a favorable impression upon our citizens. While here they received every attention which was in the power of the Good Intent Engine Co. to pay them.

October 8, 1859, the Independence Fire Engine Company, of Philadelphia, came to Pottsville on a visit. They numbered forty-six men and were accompanied by the Liberty Cornet Band, numbering seventeen men. The members of the company wore light fire coats, New York style fire hats, red shirts with the figure 39 on the breast, and black pantaloons. The visiting company were received at the depot by the Hydraulian and Good Intent, having for its marshal, J. R. Culley, a member of the Fairmount Fire Company, of Philadelphia, Pa. After a parade through our streets, the company was escorted to its quarters at the Pottsville House. In the evening they attended a ball given in their honor at the Town Hall. The following day the Good Intent and the Independence had a trial of the power of their respective engines at the pole, corner of Centre and Mahantongo streets. It seemed that they were about equal with a shade in favor of the former company.

Nov. 3, 1859, a delegation of the Good Intent Fire Company visited Harrisburg this week to be present at the parade of the department, which came off on Tuesday. They were the guests of the Citizens' Fire Company, of that borough, and on Tuesday evening were entertained hospitably at the Walnut Street Exchange. They were much pleased with their visit and entertainment.

The following is a copy of exceptions filed with the Court, 5th December, 1859:

In the Court of Common Pleas of Schuylkill County:

Exception to the Incorporation of an association of men under the name of the Good Intent Fire Company, "No. 1," of Pottsville. The Hydraulian Fire Company, by their Attorney, Geo. H. Clay, except to the incorporation of the above association, under the full name as they pray to be called, because a part of the proposed name, to wit, "No. 1," may lead to a dispute between the exceptant and the proposed association. The exceptant is led to believe that "No. 1," mentioned as a part of the proposed name is mentioned to express the idea that they are the oldest association of firemen in the said Borough, which might give preferences to them in position in parades and other public gatherings of the fire companies of the said Borough, when the truth is that the exceptant is the oldest association of firemen in the said Borough, and always have been recognized as such. If incorporated by the whole name as proposed, breaches of the peace and other violations of law might ensue in a contest as to the meaning of the term "No. 1."

Schuylkill County, ss.

John Power on his solemn oath, saith that he is President of the Hydraulian Fire Company, of the said Borough, and that the facts above stated are true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

July 12, 1866, the committee was changed to the following: W. H. Gore, Saml. Russel, C. W. Schnerr, Chas. Kantner, Lin Bartholomew.

July 12, 1866, a committee was appointed to procure a third class steam fire engine. George Hopkins, Augustus Smith, M. V. B. Hutchinson, A. B. Cochran, W. H. Gore.

July 26, 1866, it was decided to purchase a third class Amoskeag steam fire engine, and the order was given to Mr. C. A. Luce, Agt.

STEAMER CONTEST.

June 4, 1867. On Tuesday afternoon last, at Centre and Norwegian Sts., there was a contest between the Good Intent and Humane steamers, as to the power of each to throw a horizontal stream. The stakes were $100 a side. The judges were, for Good Intent, Asa Smith, of Pottsville; for Humane, Capt. Lawrence, of Minersville, with H. A. Nichols, of Pottsville, as referee. The contest attracted a large number of persons to witness it, and excited considerable interest. The Good Intent allowed the Humane five feet. Both engines played remarkably well, but the Good Intent proved victorious by seven feet. The distance thrown by each engine through an inch and an eighth nozzle, was as follows:

Good Intent.....232½ feet.

Humane.....220½ feet.

For years the company occupied the lot on the south side of Goforth alley on Fifth street. The surface showed some signs of caving in owing to some old mine workings, and steps were taken to move to the north side of Goforth alley. And on the 12th September, 1867, the company passed the following resolution:

“Resolved, That the company agrees to take down the house now occupied by them, and that we will save all the material that can possibly be saved, clean the bricks, dig the foundation and do all the excavating that may be necessary, and do all in our power to rebuild the house with as little expense as possible to the borough.”

Oct. 24, 1867. The committee on plans for the new house reported a plan submitted by council, and after considerable discussion, that plan was not accepted. That same evening, Messrs. Wm. Gore and Saml. Russel were added to the original committee, which was composed of the following: Chas. Kantner, Chas. Schnerr, S. Reilley, S. Ruch, A. B. Cochran. Under this committee the new building was completed.

March 12, 1870, the company placed an order for a new hose carriage with Mr. D. G. Matthews.

May 23, 1870, the company decided to add the beneficial features to the organization, and set aside $100 as a beginning of the fund.

July 18, 1870, the new hose carriage was received and put in service.

August 1, 1870, the company purchased a picture frame to hold the pictures of sixty members, paying $100 for it.

September 26, 1870, the first order for sick benefits was drawn on the treasurer.

May 29, 1871, the company participated in the large German Peace Jubilee parade. Captain Martin Eichorn fired a salute from the battery on the morning of that date.

Sunday, April 14, 1872, Chas. Ewing, a member of the company, was killed on Market St., below Fifth, while running to the Sanderson street fire. He had hold of the tongue, when one of the engine wheels struck a dirt ridge left by pipe layers, and he was thrown to the ground, one of the hind wheels passing over his head, shattering his skull. Deceased was a soldier in the Civil War, being a corporal in Co. K, 67th Regt., Penna. Vols. He was severely wounded at the battle of Cold Harbor; he was subsequently on the police force of the borough, and at the time of his death was constable of the South ward. He was a young man in the prime and vigor of life, and an active member of the company.

His remains were interred on Wednesday afternoon, April 17, in the Presbyterian cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. Sembower, of the Baptist Church. The following organizations accompanied the remains to their last resting place: Jones' Cornet Band, the Gowen Guards, Pottsville Light Infantry, American Hose Co., No. 2, Phoenix Hose and Hook and Ladder Co., No. 2, Human: Steam Fire Engine Co., No. 1, Good Intent Fire Engine Co., No. 1, and members of the 67th Regt., P. V. The flags on the engine houses were displayed at half mast, and the fire alarm bell was tolled during the passage of the cortege from the house to the cemetery.

Independent Fire Co. The committee was composed of S. R. Russel and E. P. Lewis. At that time the department in Williamsport was changed into a paid department.

November 17, 1874. Martin Eichorn was elected driver.

May 29, 1875, the company participated in the ceremonies of the unveiling of the monument to Mr. E. C. Baird in the Charles Baber cemetery.

September 14, 1875, the Good Intent Fire Co., No. 1, kept open house and entertained and furnished meals to six full companies of the National Guard on the occasion of an inspection which took place in Pottsville.

January 31, 1876. Soon after the Academy of Music was opened, a marionette performance was given under the auspices of the company. The newspaper article was as follows: "The largest audience ever assembled in the new Academy of Music greeted the performance given by the marionette troupe last evening, and we had anticipated a great deal, but our expectations were more than realized. The combination consists of nearly one hundred figures, who go through their different parts in a life-like manner; their naturalness is really wonderful and at times we forgot that we were in the presence of automatons, guided through their performances by the aid of wires skilfully manipulated by those behind the scenes, and imagined we were witnessing a play in which men and women were really players. The first part of the program embraced Ethiopian songs, jokes and dances, and was well performed. Then followed a carnival of variety acts, some of which were very funny. The most pleasant feature of the evening was the pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood," during which the audience, old and young, were kept in a roar of laughter. These two performances netted the company six hundred and fifty-two dollars and sixty cents.

March 7, 1876, the company presented Mr. Samuel Russel a First Defenders' medal made of gold, as a token of their esteem.

For years it was customary for the company to hold an annual ball. Costumers from Philadelphia were employed to assist in costuming the characters in the grand march, and on numerous occasions bunting and flags were obtained from outside parties, and much time and expense was given to the decoration of Union Hall on these occasions. The ball held April 17th, 1876, was a great affair, and is described as follows: "The Goodies' Carnival." "This afternoon our streets were fairly alive with people anxious to see the Grand Carnival Parade, gotten up by the Good Intent Fire Co., No. 1. The occasion had been long looked forward to with anxious expectation by hosts of fun-loving people, and we think we can say that the carnival was even more than was anticipated. The procession formed on Market Square, and at two o'clock, moved over the route published on Saturday. It is utterly impossible for us to give a complete description of it. There was so much to admire and so much to laugh at. The female band, the minstrels, the allegorical representations of Penn's Treaty with the Indians, the three-legged man, the Mulligan Guards, the Goddess of Liberty, a white-washed sulky with an Arabian steed, cow bellogians, the Bungtown serenaders, Tammany rings, and hosts of other characters too numerous to mention, as the circus bills say, made up a sight such as Pottsville never before witnessed. All over the route of parade the procession was greeted with shouts of laughter, and we never saw a whole town so convulsed with laughter as ours was yesterday. Poor Bolivar, the trained elephant, became weary and was taken back to the engine house where he was carefully taken apart, and the different members of his body stood on the curbstone and laughed at the amusing procession as it passed. While the procession was passing through Morris' Addition, one of the bass drummers of the female band tried to step over a cart load of our sacred soil, which had been scraped from the street. His attempt was a signal failure, and he landed in the gutter on his back with the drum pointing heavenwards. He was lifted to his feet by two other bass drummers, and the band moved on. Further up the street a drunken man interfered with some of the characters, and was so persistent in his actions, that the spirit moved Wm. Penn, who was busily engaged in buying the State of Pennsylvania for a bottle of whiskey and a plug of tobacco, to get down from the wagon and put a head on the drunken offender. We are afraid that the peaceful William used very emphatic language, and we are not sure whether his attack in squelching the disturber of his peaceful negotiations with the noble red men was exactly according to Hoyle. The carnival in all particulars was a decided success, and the Goodies have the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts to please are fully appreciated. So much for the street parade. The ball is described as follows: "Seldom, if ever, has a ball been given in this place that reached the magnitude and interest of the Goodies' Thirtieth Annual, which was given this evening. Union Hall was resplendent with the most brilliant and elaborate decorations. The ceiling and walls were covered with bunting and the national colors, while festoons of evergreens and flowers were hung around the room in profusion. The stage was beautifully decorated with flags and evergreens, and all around it was a bank of mountain moss in which were hundreds of tropical and hot house plants and flowers in full bloom, the perfume of which was delightful. Jones' full cornet band, in uniform, furnished the music, and they never performed better. Everywhere throughout the ball-room were Centennial emblems and characters; suspended from the ceiling was an immense liberty bell of perfect shape and proportion, made of American flags, and trimmed with evergreen, Chinese lanterns and revolving globes, composed of miniature flags, were hung around the walls and ceiling in large numbers, and lent an additional charm to the beauty of the decorations. Shortly before the Grand Carnival March, order was called, and John A. Nash, Esq., mounted the stage and in a brief address stated that he had been called upon by the Phoenix Fire Company to present to the Good Intent Fire Co., as a testimonial of their brotherly love and esteem, a handsome walnut chair, upholstered with finest crimson silk. The present was received on behalf of the "Goodies," by D. C. Henning, Esq., who in his usual happy style acknowledged the gift and paid the Phoenix boys a very high compliment, after which three rousing cheers were given for each company. At twelve o'clock the band struck up the Grand March, and the Grand Carnival procession filed out of the ante-rooms into the main hall, and went through all the pleasing and intricate evolutions of the Grand March. The sight was very amusing and the march was pronounced by all present to be the crowning feature of the evening. The floor was crowded as it never was before, and although the dancers had but little room they enjoyed themselves hugely. The festivities were kept up until five o'clock in the morning, and the thirtieth annual was decidedly the finest ball ever given by the "Goodies."

May, 1876. Hon. O. P. Bechtel presented the company with Bates' History of Penna. Volunteers.

July, 1876. The old mill oil painting and three others were purchased.

September 6, 1876. The company participated in the Volunteer Fire Department parade at Philadelphia.

November, 1877. The Buckley & Merritt new carriage was received. Cost, $600.

May, 1878. The five volumes of Harpers' Weekly, 1861-1865, were bought.

December, 1880. C. W. Bushar was sent to Reading, Pa., as delegate to the first convention of volunteer firemen.

April 26, 1881. At this meeting the thanks of the company were tendered to Mr. P. W. Sheaffer, who kindly offered the use of the books of the Athaenaeum to the members of this company.

July, 1881. Council appropriated $2,000 to purchase the Leib lot, corner of Second St. and Goforth alley, for a site for the new engine house.

The corner stone of the new engine house was laid Saturday evening, June 17th, 1882. The announcement of this event had the effect of drawing a large crowd to the vicinity of the site of the new building. The members of the company turned out en masse, headed by the West End Band, which furnished the music for the occasion. The Borough Council was well represented, and the setting of the stone was done in the presence of the official heads of the borough. The work of setting the stone was done by W. Taliesin Jones and Geo. W. Taylor, members of the company. In the box deposited in the stone, the following articles were placed: "Latest edition of the borough ordinances; copy of council proceedings relative to the building; list of officers and members of the company from its organization, witnessed by Geo. W. Taylor, President; C. W. Bushar, Secretary, and Jno. F. Bushar, Financial Secretary; a piece of the spoke of wheel which caused Charles Ewing's death, April 5th, 1872; circular of change of headquarters of the second geological survey of the Anthracite coal fields to Pottsville; badge No. 64, Pottsville Fire Department; jimmy and medal, by William Kalbach; key of old engine house, by Geo. W. Rhoads; Special Deputy United States Marshal's badge, by Harry Howard; list of corporate officers of the borough, police, &c.; trade dollar, 1876, by Martin Kaefer, of the American Hose Co.; Professor Becker's card; a copy of the Tamaqua Anthracite Journal of July, 1868, printed in red, white and blue, by R. L. Leyburn; an assortment of small coins; a piece of the battle flag of the 96th Regt., P. V., by Geo. W. Foltz, who was shot under it.

After the stone had been laid, D. C. Henning, Esq., made a brief address to the assembled crowd. He spoke substantially as follows: "In the presence of this vast concourse of people, in the name of the Good Intent Fire Co., No. 1, of Pottsville, and the members thereof; to the honor of the officers and citizens of the Borough of Pottsville, and by the grace of the Great Architect of the universe, let the structure be dedicated to the cause of the people, the preservation of their lives and their property. In this spirit and with this end in view, we here deposit in the corner stone of this edifice the records and memoirs of the past history of our borough, so that future generations may see and know the works of our good people and the motives which prompted them. Many years ago, there was established in this borough the Good Intent Fire Co. Its members were few, its apparatus crude, but as time wore on and our beautiful town progressed, so did this company progress; and now it stands among the foremost volunteer fire organizations in the Commonwealth. I speak of this, because we wish to guarantee to the President of Town Council, the members thereof, and the citizens of our borough, that the trust reposed in this company by our people shall be faithfully and religiously kept. By the experience of the past are we to judge of the future. Need I call to mind the past history of this company and its membership, not alone local patriots in the cause for which they enlisted in this organization, but rising to the occasion when their country called them they flew to her rescue. The history of the glory of these men is recorded in the annals of our country. Their names and their cause will never die; their cause was liberty, and their names will live forever. Many of them went to return no more; among them, Major Gilmour, the Severns, our Hutchinson, Maize, and many others, whose names shall remain green in our hearts forever. This history, with that of the history of duty performed, must be to you the earnest of this company, for the faithful performance of their duty to our people and our country in the future. As a member of this company, and speaking for it and its members, we desire to thank you for the consideration you have shown us and the confidence you have reposed in us, and we look upon it not alone as a recognition of our company, but as a recognition of our entire volunteer fire department, which today stands second to none, in the State of Pennsylvania. The people may congratulate themselves upon this evidence of their prosperity and upon the protection that their offices afford them in faithfully performing their duties, and in their laudable endeavors to protect life and property in our midst. To them the thanks of this company are due, and are now cheerfully given, and to the people who have supported us we say, Welcome to this testimonial, to the rise and progress of our beautiful town."

On Wednesday night, November 29th, 1882, the company took possession of their new engine house at the corner of Second street and Goforth alley, with elaborate and interesting ceremonies. About seven o'clock the members of the company, with their apparatus, paraded the town bearing torches and sending up fireworks, to the martial strains of the West End Band. The effect of the fireworks on the snow was really beautiful. The principal streets were traversed and the procession wended its way to the new house, which was formally entered. The company was at once invited to the parlor, where with their guests, the borough officials, press representatives and a few others, they sat down to four long tables groaning under the weight of the delicacies of the season. Before the attack began, D. C. Henning, Esq., on behalf of the company, bid their guests welcome. He said, this company has been a supplicant for many years for those necessities which were required in the discharge of their duty as good firemen. Having secured what it asked, it now has the honor of being the host of council and the citizens. The company feels great pride in offering the officials and private citizens the hospitalities of the season. The host is not without honor. A company ranking among the oldest in the Commonwealth; a company whose apparatus is manned by men who have been weighed and not found wanting; a company who not only as firemen, but as soldiers, have borne the brunt of battle which secured to us the liberties we enjoy as a nation. I am not speaking vauntingly, because the men of whom I speak, now more particularly, have gone to their last long home; their bones lie bleached on many a southern battle field. Those who remain and those who follow, cherish the sentiments that inspired them, and endeavor to emulate the example they left. This is the character of your host. I am not here to say this is the best fire company in the town, but I am here to affirm that the trust reposed in it by the people of Pottsville, through their officials, will be faithfully kept. It is only necessary to point to the forty years' history of this company as a guarantee of this, and though there remain but few of the original charter members, the confidence reposed in them at the date of their organization will not be misplaced in their successors.

This new building stands on sacred ground; here, for many years some of our best people met and worshipped. They made it sacred to the saving of souls, but I know that their zeal in that respect was not greater than will be the efforts of this company to save life and property. Whenever duty calls we will be there. We have never been recreant to our motto, "To do Good, is our Intent."

While the band played, the provisions were stored away, a liberal allowance finding its way beneath each vest. When all had been satisfied, W. J. Whitehouse, Esq., read letters from Hon. D. B. Green, Hon. C. N. Brumm and John L. Pott. George R. Kaercher, Esq., was then called on for a speech. He said he was at a loss to know why so many members of the Bar were invited to a firemen's banquet. He had about come to the conclusion that the profession is supposed to have a very warm future place in view. This is a popular delusion however, but it will do no harm to become acquainted with a well regulated fire company. The best insurance policy is a good fire company. When our people hear the "Goodies," and the Humane, and the Phoenix, and the American, and the Atkins, and the Good Will go rolling by at night on their way to battle with the flames, they say: "There goes the boys; its all right now; let's go to sleep again," and the next day they read in the papers that the fire was put out before it got a start. Of one thing our people are justly proud, and that is their fire department. The people of Pottsville have always been in the front rank in response to the call of duty. It will go down to the remotest ages that the First Defenders came from this town. I hope, and wish, and believe that in the future, they will be in the front rank whenever honor and duty shall call.

Charles E. Emhardt, President.

Thos. A. Reilly, President of Council, in a few brief remarks, congratulated the company on the completion of the building. He hoped they would appreciate and take care of it, promising the further assistance of council in time of need, if this trust shall be well kept.

George M. Roads, Esq., made a happy speech, in which he said some complimentary things about the company.

Chief Engineer B. B. McCool made an address of practical value. He said council had not done more than the company had a right to ask, though nearly one-third of the tax duplicate had been spent on the building, not one dollar of it was wasted. Fifty years ago council wrangled over the purchase of a few leather buckets, and later on, when they magnanimously lent a company of young men a few hundred dollars to build a house, they exacted interest from them. The ban of rowdyism was then against firemen. A new civilization has sprung up since then, and that ban is removed. Firemen have twelve States and National fire associations. In our own State the association is demanding legislation. They ask that the tax on foreign insurance companies' premiums paid in each town shall be appropriated to the fire department of that town. They ask that disabled firemen be pensioned; that deceased firemen be buried, and they mean to show the world that rowdyism is extinct. The history of this company is an evidence of that. Speaking officially, he said the other companies of town had the right to expect as good a house as this, and from what he knew of the Good Intent, nobody will be better pleased than they, when the other companies get their deserts.

Music filled in a gap and Judge Bechtel was called on. He said he had not known before that so many members of the Bar were firemen. He was now able to account for the numerous fiery arguments in court. He congratulated the borough on the fact that the merits of the firemen were being recognized, and the company on its new house.

Mr. William Kennedy, of the "Chronicle," gave some of his experiences as a fireman. He said that no higher type of heroism could be presented than the firemen battling the elements to save life and property at the risk and often sacrifice of his own life. He mentioned a number of illustrious men who were firemen in their days, including George Washington, who was Chief of a Bucket Brigade, at Alexandria, Va., and used to "whoop 'em up," with Patrick Henry and the rest of the boys. Thad. Stevens and James Buchanan were presidents of rival fire companies, at Lancaster, and the rivalry there commenced and continued throughout their lives. He illustrated by anecdotes the difference between the primitive bucket brigade and the organized departments. Referring to the motto, he said, that while the place to which "Bob" Ingersoll showed such an antipathy is paved with good intentions, there can be no nobler object in life than to do good, and he trusted that the motto of this company would not lead its members downward, but upwards, and to that place where fire departments will be unnecessary.

The festivities and speech making were kept up to a late hour, and when the adjournment did come, the members of the company departed in good humor with the borough, the council, the house, the banquet and themselves.

January 9, 1883, the Buckley & Merritt carriage was sold to W. W. Wunder, of Reading, Pa.

May, 1883, the company received the spider carriage, built by W. W. Wunder.

May 28, 1883, the company entered into a contract with the Manchester Locomotive Works for a third class steam fire engine. The committee acting for the company was composed of Edward Cake, C. W. Bushar, John S. Helms and Geo. A. Becker.

July 4, 1883. A grand gift concert was held at People's Railway Park.

July, 1883, the company entered into a contract with the Manchester Locomotive Works for a hose truck.

July, 1883, the new engine was received and the committee reported that it came up to the requirements as stated in the contract.

On Saturday, July 28th, 1883, about 150 members of the Good Intent Fire Company, headed by the Third Brigade Band and followed by the hose carriage, two steamers and plenty of ammunition wagons, paraded from the company's house down Market and Centre, and out Tumbling Run valley to Humane Island, to spend the day in the woods. The old and new engines were decorated with transparencies, on which were the following sentiments: On the old steamer, "Old Reliable, She Never Flinched;" "We Love Her Still;" "She Has Done Her Duty and Will Do it Yet;" "Always in Order." The new steamer carried the following enthusiastic mottoes: "New Reliable, She Will Never be Found Wanting;" "Where the 'Goodies' Money Goes;" "Part of the Proceeds of the Gift Concert—Thanks to the Citizens;" "This is Our Pride."

When the boys started out in such enthusiastic style there was no reason to doubt that they would have a big time today. A trial of the new steamer will be made at four o'clock.

November, 1883, the truck was received from the Manchester Locomotive Works.

November 12, 1883, the company responded to the fire at Shenandoah with their engine and a two-wheeled hose truck.

March, 1884, the double and single setts of swinging harness were received.

May, 1884. Resolutions of thanks were received from the Council of Shenandoah and Columbia Hose and Steam Fire Engine Co., of that place.

September 17, 1885, the company participated in the Centennial celebration of the City of Harrisburg, Pa. They were the guests of the Washington Hose Co., No. 4. The State Firemen's Convention met at Harrisburg at this time.

September, 1885, the company drew up a set of resolutions thanking the Washington Hose Co., No. 4, and after having them beautifully engrossed, the copy of resolutions were forwarded to that company.

September, 1886, the company bought the Steinway Grand Piano at a cost of one thousand dollars.

October, 1886, the company sold their old Amoskeag engine to the Mountaineer Hose, of Minersville, Pa.

June 21, 1887. Trip made to Atlantic City, N. J., accompanied by the Third Brigade Band. This train was the first train to leave the new P. & R. R. station at Norwegian and Railroad streets. The company was escorted through Philadelphia by a delegation of the Fairmount Fire Association. On the return to Philadelphia, after leaving Atlantic City, the Third Brigade Band, under Prof. J. I. Alexander, serenaded the Mayor at his office. The company was entertained by the Volunteer Active Firemen's Association, at their rooms.

February 28, 1888, the picture frame on the south wall of the sitting room was bought from W. S. Graham at a cost of $75.

July, 1888. A committee was appointed to act with other committees from the several companies for the purpose of assisting in raising funds towards the Soldiers' Monument in Garfield square. A large picnic was held by the department at the Cressona Park, and the amount, something over seven hundred dollars, was donated to this object.

September 21, 1888. A reception and banquet was tendered the members of the Philadelphia Volunteer Active Association this evening at Centennial Hall. The Miners' Journal publishes the account, as follows:

The red shirted fire laddies who strolled through the streets sight-seeing yesterday morning, in tow of members of the Good Intent Fire Company, were the committee of the Volunteer Firemen's Active Association, of Philadelphia, returning from the Shamokin tournament. As a reciprocation for the open-hearted treatment of the Goodies some time ago, an old time Fireman's reception and banquet was proposed, to take place at Centennial Hall last evening. Hence the presence of the committee, which was composed as follows: J. H. Rohrbach, of the Neptune; Wm. Harper, of the Pennsylvania Hose; John Mead, Hibernia; James Fisher, Liberty Hose; W. R. Finch, Kensington; W. T. Daley, Liberty; Simon Snyder, Good Intent; Saml. Moullie, Schuylkill; James Lewis, Southwark; J. H. Anderson, George Brownell, Reliance; George Guhlock, Good Will; Anthony Morin, Hibernia; James McManes, First Assistant Engineer, Gloucester, N. J.

At 8 o'clock in the evening a short street parade was made, headed by the Third Brigade Band. What the parade lacked in point of size it more than made up in enthusiasm. Crowds of people demonstrated their appreciation of the gallant firemen with hurrahs, fireworks, and every indication of interest.

The parade over, the visitors were hustled off to Centennial Hall, where decoration and tables laid for some two hundred met their gaze.

The tables were under the charge of Caterer Bauer, and were a pronounced success. Pyramids of fruit and bouquets of flowers furnished the visionary end of the feast, while the menu, which was elaborate, included everything substantial and delicate, solid and liquid that mortal man could wish for.

Many invited guests and honorary firemen were present, among whom were W. Ramsay Potts, J. A. M. Passmore, B. Bryson McCool, Baird Halberstadt, Daniel L. Krebs, Geo. M. Roads, C. Shumway, W. J. Whitehouse, H. H. Hoopes, Ed. Lewis, Geo. M. Bretz, C. F. Seltzer, P. D. Helms, S. M. Mortimer, R. H. Bergeman, James Aikman, D. C. Henning, Jas. Greenwood, representatives of the press and others.

The Third Brigade Band, under Adolph Kopp—well, everybody knows what they did and how they always do it.

At 10 o'clock President John Johnson called the meeting to order and introduced Capt. D. C. Henning, who in behalf of the Good Intent Company, formally welcomed the visitors.

He was followed by Jacob Rohrbach, Secretary of the Volunteer Association, who responded in a speech full of good, heartfelt wishes for the Pottsville boys. Calls for Capt. Anthony Morin; and when that veteran spoke of his experience here during the war when, as he said, he was killed with kindness, and referred to the part taken in the war by the Fire Zouaves and other firemen organizations, he was given a perfect ovation. The veteran fireman, B. E. McCool, Esq., then gave a resume of the sphere and duties of a fireman, pointing to the fact that the morale of the organizations was of cardinal importance, and, after eulogizing the time honored company who were the hosts of the occasion, wound up by presenting to James McManes, of Gloucester, N. J., a handsome badge.

Mr. McManes, is a typical fireman, in words, in person and in ideas. He gave such a pointed, vigorous and pleasing speech, which by virtue of its sturdy ideas and common sense propositions, is destined to be long remembered.

Wm. Harper, of Philadelphia, spoke of the "privates" when the band took their places and at the call of duty the boys responded with such alacrity as would strike terror into the heart of a boarding house keeper. To the music they sat at the tables like famine at a church fair and made ready for the fray. In this case the firemen were the devouring elements, and it is needless to say that the firemen conquered. Chairman Johnson rapped for order and proposed the first toast, the Volunteer Firemen's Active Association, of Philadelphia, to which District Attorney Whitehouse responded in an address, replete with bright sallies, which was heartily applauded.

The Borough Council was responded to by P. D. Helms, who defined his position and complimented the firemen.

The Pottsville Fire Department was allotted to Geo. M. Roads, Esq., and at his hands the reputation of the boys for bravery, hospitality and a self-sacrificing spirit did not suffer.

One of the visitors was asked if he enjoyed himself and replied, "Well, I should smile," and after the smile had vanished, he launched forth into such praise of the Goodies, their good nature, their good banquets and the good town of Pottsville, as would be sufficient to convince anyone that the visitors could not have enjoyed themselves more than at the hands of the Good Intent Fire Company.

October, 1888. Anthony Morin and a committee of the Volunteer Firemen's Active Association, presented the company with a large silver horn and some pictures of the members of their association.

March 31, 1892, the remains of Wm. Watson, a member, were buried from the engine house. The interment was made at Odd Fellows' Cemetery.

March, 1892. Company purchased a combination pool and billiard table for the use of the members.

September 22 and 23, 1892, the company entertained the Fairmount Hose Company, of Norristown, on their arrival from the State Firemen's Convention.

April 14, 1896. A motion was carried deciding to make the trip to Washington, D. C., on the occasion of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the company.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

On Wednesday, September 23d, 1896, the company left for Washington on a special train made up of four B. & O. vestibule cars. The Third Brigade Band, of thirty-one members, accompanied the company on the trip. The following members participated:

Part of three days was spent in the City of Washington. While there the members visited the Capitol Buildings, the White House and all other places of interest. A trip was made to Alexandria, Va., and a visit paid to Mt. Vernon, General Washington's old home. A very pleasant time was spent and everyone greatly enjoyed the visit and trip. On the way home the tourists stopped off at Philadelphia. They reached Pottsville at 9 o'clock, Saturday, September 26th, 1896. We quote from the Miners' Journal of September 28, regarding the glorious reception given to the tourists by the Pottsville Fire Department and citizens generally, on their return home.

Good will, friendship and good fellowship marked the reception by the several fire companies of Pottsville and vicinity on the return Saturday evening of the Good Intent Company from their four days sojourn in Washington and Philadelphia, and the thousands of people who lined the streets to see them marching by in handsome uniforms and with Pennsylvania's finest band, welcomed them gladly and heartily, even if a big official in the Navy building did insult them and threaten to wet their suits and dampen their ardor with a common hose.

Their reception had been planned by several members who had been unable to participate in the trip. They made the company's home on Second street attractive with flags, festoons, lanterns and other decorations, and prepared a banquet for them and their friends. The other companies were invited to participate in the reception and courteously responded by sending uniformed representatives. In accordance with plans, the American Hose, the Phoenix, the Good Will, the Humane, the West End, of Pottsville, and the Good Will, of Port Carbon, with the Fourth Regiment Drum Corps and the Minersville Drum Corps, assembled near the Reading station to await the arrival of the 8:30 train. The gaiety of the uniforms, the burning torches, the bands and the assembled spectators, made a scene of life during the time of waiting that was made more stirring by the playing of the musical organizations.

As the travelers appeared on the platform of the station marching out in regular order, accompanied by the Third Brigade Band, there were hearty cheers from scores of voices. Their arrival on the street was the signal for the discharge of quantities of Roman candles in the hands of nearly every one of the receiving party. The air was made brilliant by the starry sweeps of the colored meteors darting upwards in forty directions and leaving fiery trails in their wake. The reports of rockets was added to by the stirring airs of the bands and the shouts of the people.

Such was the reception of the gallant Good Intent.

The parade followed. All along the route did the lively scene continue, and at all points was the host tendered the same ovation. The march up Norwegian street was diverted at Centre where it was directed to Pennsylvania Hall. There was a countermarch to Minersville street and another to Market street, and thence to Second street and to the old building the Good Intent has so long known as home.

There the several fire companies were entertained for three or four hours. The banquet was bountiful and open to all. There the members of the several companies mingled, chatted and laughed and exchanged stories with as much ease as if they had been in their own houses, and this was the feeling the Good Intent wanted them to have.

In behalf of the several companies and the citizens, John Reber, of the Humane Company, made an eloquent address, in which he warmly welcomed the travelers home. His remarks were applauded.

MR. HENNING'S SPEECH.

The full story of the outrage, was given by Captain Henning in his address. It is as follows: George M. Roads, Esq., a member of the committee, wrote a letter to the committee in charge of the excursion, which was received on Thursday morning, asking them to serenade his friend, J. M. Stanton, Paymaster United States Army, located in the Army and Navy Building, and requested them to make the arrangements with Major Muhlenburg, United States Army, his chief of staff. They forthwith went to Major Muhlenburg and handed him this letter, who stated that he had received a letter from Mr. Roads stating that a committee would wait on him, and to make the necessary arrangements. There were several other officers of the Army present and who were friends of General Stanton, and they agreed that the serenade should be a surprise to the General. The company, having had their photos taken on the Treasury steps, the committee with the band, and a number of firemen and Mr. D. C. Henning, returned to the Army and Navy building, it being the hour presented, 10 o'clock. The committee then conferred with Major Muhlenburg, and it was arranged that the band should take its position at the foot of the steps of the northern portico of the building, and after the play began, Major Muhlenburg and his army friends, were to escort the General to the head of the steps.

As soon as the band commenced to play, Engineer of the Navy, George W. Baird, superintendent of the building, rushed out and said that the music must stop, the band had no right to play there, and asked who was the spokesman of the party. Mr. Henning came hurriedly to him and said to him that this serenade had been arranged for at this place and this time by General Stanton's brother officers of the army as a serenade to him. He insolently replied; "I don't know General Stanton; take your band away, or I will turn the hose on them." Mr. Henning tried further to reason with him, as did also some of the officers of the army, but he rushed in through the door and would listen to none. Mr. Henning then called to the leader of the band to stop his music, and they all withdrew. The committee remained, however, for a while, and learned that all the officers of the army condemned the action of Mr. Baird. It should be stated that on the previous day, after the arrangement had been made for the serenade, Major Muhlenburg called at the office of Mr. Baird, not for the purpose of getting his consent, but to ask him if there would be any objection to having the serenade at that place. Mr. Baird was not in, but his chief clerk conferred with him and stated that if there were any objections, he would let him know in the meantime. Mr. Muhlenburg stated that no such notice was given him, and therefore concluded that the matter was all agreed to.

At about one o'clock, Major Humphries, one of the officers who was present when the arrangement was made, called upon Mr. Henning to express to him the regret and the humiliation which the officers felt for the unfortunate occurrence, and requested him to accompany him to the office of Major Carson, the "J. M. C." of the Philadelphia Ledger, who, when they went there, stated his indignation and condemnation of the ungentlemanly and unbecoming conduct of Mr. Baird, and who insisted that Mr. Baird must be removed from that position, and also stated that he had met many of the officers of the army, and they all joined in condemning the act. He also stated that he called upon the Secretary of War, the Hon. Daniel Lamont, who concurred with him in his feelings of indignation at the conduct of this officer, and stated to him also, that Mr. Baird was an appointee of the Secretary of the Navy.

The officers of the army to further show their indignation at this outrage and their courtesy to the firemen tourists and their wives and ladies accompanying them, invited them all to visit the Arlington cemetery, under Major Humphries' charge, who provided barouches and carriages for all the party. He, in company with Col. Ainsworth and Mr. Henning, in his private carriage, accompanied the party to the grounds and extended to them every courtesy, presenting the ladies with the choicest bouquets from the conservatory. He tendered carriages for the entire excursion party, and many of the tourists being away from their hotel, missed the opportunity, and so their carriages were returned back to the stable, because they were not needed.

In every way possible, Colonel Ainsworth and Major Humphreys and their friends, made the tourists feel that they were their especial guests, and they devoted their whole time during that day to the entertainment of the excursion party.

It can safely be said that no civic excursion ever visited Washington that received such distinguished and courteous attention from the officers of the army as did that of the Good Intent Fire Company No. 1.

The tourists were informed that the action of Mr. Baird was condemned by the officers of the army and the residents of the city alike, and that his removal will be demanded. Any humiliation that any of the members of the fire company felt, was all removed by the proper and courteous action of the gentlemen we have herein named and their friends, and the greatest pleasure they derived from their tour was through the courtesy of these gentlemen.

In everything that was done by the members of the band or company, not an impolite word was spoken, nor an improper action taken.

General Stanton and his staff, and a number of other officers, called upon the members of the fire company on Friday evening, and were their guests in the parlors of the hotel for several hours, during which time the band gave the General the serenade which was obstructed by Mr. Baird in the morning.

The enconiums of the band were many—cheered to the echo.

The Washington Post, of Saturday, referring to this outrageous occurrence, says:

"It may not be often that Chief Engineer George W. Baird, United States Navy, has the opportunity to exercise his authority as Superintendent of the State, War and Navy Department building on an important occasion, but he seized one yesterday and exercised it with a vengeance, and that, too, against one of the most honorable bodies of men that has ever visited the Capitol. As a result, the members of the Good Intent Engine Company, of Pottsville, Pa., many of whom were among the first defenders of the nation, are quite indignant at what they deem a serious breach of courtesy on Engineer Baird's part. Incidentally, Gen. Stanton lost the pleasure of a serenade with which he was about to be honored. The Good Intent Company, with the finest band in the State of Pennsylvania, were snubbed and dismissed as unceremoniously as if they had been 'a leetle German band,' which the superintendent feared might distract the attention of the clerks from their work.

"When the Pottsville veterans and the younger men, who aid in keeping up their old and respected organization determined to visit Washington, they were fully prepared for an excursion in which there would be not the slightest thing to mar their enjoyment. They came, 160 of them, on a special train, and had laid out a snug sum of money from their treasury wherewith to entertain their friends and have a good time themselves. The veterans pride themselves on the band attached to their organization, which was once a part of the Ninety-sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers, for it is the Third Brigade Band, and considered by National Guardsmen of the Keystone State, as the best in the militia."

It is due to Captain Henning to say that the Good Intent Fire Company, who have been seen in regard to this unpleasant episode in the company's visit, express their gratification at the presence of Captain Henning, and entire satisfaction at the manner in which he came to their rescue and succeeded in placing them in a proper position. His conduct, they say, was that of a gentleman, and stood in bold contrast to that of an officer of the navy, who should have set the example of gentlemanly courtesy.

On Tuesday evening, September 28th, 1896, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously passed and copies of the same were sent to each of the Fire Companies, of Pottsville.

Whereas, The Good Intent Fire Company was extended a welcome home from its return to the Capitol, at Washington, in commemoration of its Fiftieth Anniversary, by the Pottsville Fire Department, on Saturday evening, September 20th instant, by an ovation exceeding in numbers, beauty and grandeur any public event of its kind that ever took place in the Borough of Pottsville, therefore be it

Resolved, That we tender our most sincere thanks to those members of our sister fire companies, whose neighborly and patriotic feelings prompted them to bring about the finest and grandest ovation for a welcome home ever presented upon the streets of Pottsville.

Resolved, That we are under the most grateful and everlasting obligations to the members of the Humane Fire Company, the American Hose Company, the Phoenix Fire Co., the Good Will Hose Company and the West End Hose Company, for the welcome home extended to us upon our arrival at Pottsville, for the magnificent parade extended to us, and for their most honorable escort to us on our march through the streets of Pottsville, and to our engine house; and we say that this brotherly feeling extended to us is an evidence of the good will and of the golden chain of friendship that binds our several organizations together, making us one of the grandest and most powerful fire organizations in the State of Pennsylvania.

Resolved, That we feel overwhelmed with pride and gratification at the monstrous outpouring of the people of Pottsville and the surrounding towns, and county, upon this occasion, for this evidence of their respect and admiration for us we tender to them our most sincere and hearty thanks, and we say to them, that in their honoring us, they have ennobled our cause and have made us feel more proud than ever of our organization, and of the Fire Department, of Pottsville, to which we belong.

Resolved, That our thanks are due to the respective musical organizations, and to all others who contributed to make our home coming the grandest event in the history of our town.

July 15, 1897. A trolley ride was given the company by the Schuylkill Electric Railway Co. The route was from Union street to Minersville, then to Yorkville, to St. Clair, to Tumbling Run, and then to Union street. It was participated in by sixty-five members, and was thoroughly enjoyed.

September 6, 1897, Labor Day. A picnic was held at Ploppert's Park, Yorkville; previously, the department paraded and witnessed the dedication of the West End Hose Co.'s House.

October 7, 1897. State Firemen's Convention was held at Wilkes-Barre. The company attended the convention and participated in the parade.

April 26, 1898, the following resolutions were passed at a regular meeting:

"Whereas, A number of the active members of our company have already enlisted in the Pennsylvania National Guard, and others have offered themselves as volunteers in response to the call of the President, and about to march in the defense of the country's flag and honor, be it

Resolved, That the names of these members be entered on the minutes of the company with their respective offices attached; that they be exonerated from dues to this company for the period spent in the service of the United States Army or Navy; that they further be entitled to the benefits of this company in sickness and death, precisely the same as if they were at home pursuing their usual occupations;

Resolved, That the advantage of the foregoing resolution be extended to those members of the company who, hereafter, shall decide to bear arms in defense of Free Cuba and our National honor.

July 29, 1898. A large bunting flag was raised over the engine house with appropriate ceremonies.

THE GREAT FIRE.

Sunday, September 10th. From an editorial in the Miners' Journal, Saturday, September 16, 1848: "Most of our readers have doubtless already been informed of the disastrous fire, which broke out in our borough on Sunday night last. We issued an extra early on Monday morning, and supplied copies to the press, and friends abroad, by which means the news was soon spread over the country.

The fire originated in a lot of hay and straw, belonging to Chas. Moll, at the corner of Callowhill and Railroad streets. It broke out at about eleven o'clock, when nearly every one had retired for the night; still it was promptly discovered, and the alarm given. But before any effective measures could be adopted to arrest its progress, it had gained such sway as to terrify all who observed it. There was not the slightest wind—the evening was calm, and beautifully moonlight. The appetite of the element, from the long continued dry weather, was very keen indeed, and it devoured the combustible material greedily as it went along. The sight was awfully grand! A whole square on fire at one time—the fire cracking and singing in triumph, and the sparks ascending upward in streams and torrents.

The streets were filled with people, and on all sides, furniture, and every kind of goods were stowed away in the greatest confusion. The firemen toiled unceasingly, and when at last it was found that the square on fire was doomed, they directed their efforts to the surrounding buildings, and stopped the further progress of the destroyer. Many daring feats came under our notice, which might very properly be extolled here, to individual credit. But every one did his duty, and is equally deserving the thanks of the community.

“The hardy seaman pants the storm to brave,
For beck’ning fortune woos him from the wave;
The soldier battles ’neath the smoky cloud,
For glory’s bow is painted on the shroud;
The fireman also dare each shape of death,
But not for fortune’s gold, or glory’s wreath;
No selfish throbs within their breasts are known,
No hope of praise or profit cheers them on,
They ask no need, no fame, and only seek

To shield the suffering and protect the weak;
 For this the howling midnight storm they woo,
 For this, the raging flames rush fearless through,
 Mount the frail rafter, head the smoky hall,
 Or toil, unshrinking, 'neath the tottering wall;
 Nobler than those who, with fraternal blood,
 Dye the dread field, or tinge the shudd'ring flood;
 O'er their firm ranks no crimson banners wave,
 They dare, they suffer—not to stay, but save;
 As such a sight, Hope smiles more heavenly bright,
 Pale, pensive Pity, trembles with delight,
 And soft-eyed Mercy, stooping from above,
 Drops a bright tear, a tear of joy and love."

The principal sufferers are Glenn & Stine, Daniel Aurand, Abraham Miesse, Patrick Curry, Patrick Fogarty, Solomon Shoener, John Kalbach, Joseph Weaver, Oliver J. Roads, Charles Moll and Charles Kopitzsch, some of whom had no insurance, and others were only partially insured.

Messrs. S. Huntzinger, F. Fernsler, Geo. W. Mason & Co., Solomon Foster, Foster & Daly, Thos. Foster & Co., T. C. and W. Pollock, John Clayton, Fred. C. Epting, Robt. Adams, C. & W. Fox, Wm. H. Hill, John Hoffman, Jacob Hoeffler, Jas. G. Cochran, W. C. Leib, J. K. Felt-nagle, and Hassinger and Bertram, lose but little, (many of them being fully insured,) except the inconvenience occasioned by the loss of their dwellings, and the disarrangement of their business and families.

The total loss ranges between $40,000 and $50,000, of which about $40,000 was insured by the Lycoming, and the Spring Garden, and Franklin Insurance Companies, of Philadelphia. The losses of the different companies will be as follows: Lycoming, about $10,000; Franklin, about $8,500; Spring Garden, about $9,000.

CHARLES E. EMHARDT, President.

Mr. Emhardt was elected a member of the company November 21st, 1882. He is at present President of the company, this being his second year. For eleven years, he has been a member of the Board of Fire Trustees, which position he still holds. He is also an Assistant Engineer, to which position he was elected January 9th, 1883. He has also officiated as a Company Trustee for a period of five years.

Mr. Emhardt is a careful, conservative man; energetic and industrious in everything the company undertakes, nothing being too much trouble for him to do to advance the interests of the company. To him, probably more than any man in the company, is due the fact, that we are enabled to publish this history. He takes great pride in keeping track of the archives of the company, and spent many nights in the gathering of the data of the Fire Record, which forms part of this history. He has the confidence of all of the members.

SAMUEL GORE, Vice President.

Mr. Gore was elected a member of the company on November 11th, 1884. He has held the offices of Director, Librarian, Assistant Foreman, Foreman, and on two different occasions has been elected Company Trustee. At present he holds the office of Vice President.

Mr. Gore has always been active in the affairs of the company, and hard-working and self-sacrificing in its interests.

SAMUEL MORTIMER.

Mr. Mortimer joined the company in 1849, and was for a period of twenty-five years our Treasurer. While at present he does not take a very active interest in the affairs of the company, he still has the interests of the company at heart.

He has officiated as the Treasurer for the Borough of Pottsville for twenty-three years, and has practically never had any opposition for that office. This in itself is sufficient testimony as to his standing as a citizen.

JOHN JOHNSON, Recording Secretary.

Mr. Johnson was elected a member of the company on December 12th, 1882.

He has served in the capacity of Librarian, Director, Foreman, Vice President and President. He was elected a member of the Board of Fire Trustees on the 28th of September, 1886, and is still a member of that body. He is at present Recording Secretary of the company.

From his election to the present time, Mr. Johnson has been prominent in the affairs of the company.

JOHN F. BUSHAR, Financial Secretary.

Mr. Bushar was elected a member of the company on July 21st, 1873.

During his connection with the company he has held many offices. At different times he has been Trustee, Foreman, Assistant Foreman and Director. He is at present Financial Secretary, which position he has held for sixteen years. He has served as Chief Engineer of the Pottsville Department for four years, and on two occasions has been elected as Assistant Chief.

Mr. Bushar, while not an old man, has spent years as a volunteer fireman. He is much esteemed by the members of his own company. His record as Chief Engineer has been exceptionally good, and the firemen of Pottsville having great confidence in his ability to manage fires, have always worked faithfully and harmoniously under his administration.

EDWARD CAKE, Chief Engineer.

Mr. Cake was elected a member of the company February 3rd, 1873, and has been from that time the Chief Engineer of the company. Mr. Cake's advice and judgment are much sought for in the active management of the company's affairs, and particularly where the questions are of a mechanical nature. In the purchasing of apparatus he is usually appointed chairman of the committee, and has made several trips to distant points in the selection of the different apparatus.

It may not be out of place to mention, that Mr. Cake served in the Civil War in the 129th Regt., Penna. Vol., and participated in the battles of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. He was honorably discharged after nine months service.
